Madrid, 12 April 2012. The CODERE Foundation, an organization conducting activities focusing on the study, analysis, regulatory furthering and advancement of the gaming industry, is backing the II LATIN AMERICAN ECONOMIC JOURNALISM AWARD organized by IE BUSINESS SCHOOL in recognition of the quality of Latin America's economic journalists and their role in favor of governability.

Following the success of its first edition, this contest is being sponsored not only by the IE BUSINESS SCHOOL and the CODERE Foundation but also by the CAF (Andean Development Corporation) with the collaboration of Spanish-language CNN as the international media partner and the “El Tiempo” Publishing House as the local media partner in Colombia, the awards ceremony venue.

The deadline was February 15th last for submitting articles for this second edition of the IE BUSINESS SCHOOL Latin American Economic Journalism Award (<http://premioperiodismo.ie.edu/>), to which any article on the subject of economics published or broadcast in Latin American from July 2011 up to February 15, 2012 was eligible for entry.

Nearly 310 articles, reports, interviews and other informative formats from more than 180 of the region's media, signed by 145 leading economic journalists were entered in the second edition of this contest, endowed with 13,000 euros (approx. 17,000 dollars) in prizes with the participation of professionals from practically all of the Latin American countries.

The winning articles will be announced in May. The Panel of Judges, in charge of making the final decision, is comprised of highly prestigious journalists possessing experience in international media (such as CNN or The Wall Street Journal) as well as from the organizing, sponsoring companies, in addition to other institutions of importance in this region, such as the IPA (Inter American Press Association), the OAS (Organization of American States) and the CAF (Andean Development Corporation).

At its 2011 edition, the IE BUSINESS SCHOOL Latin American Economic Journalism Awards went to articles published by "Ejecutivos de Finanzas" (Mexico), "Época Negocios" (Brazil) and the Clarín IECO supplement (Argentina). The awards ceremony was held at the Americas Horse Race Track (Greater Mexico City). For this edition, the awards ceremony is scheduled to be held in Bogota, Colombia on June 21st next.
